

Supporting power supply region revitalization

We support the revitalization of power supply regions.

As part of our efforts to promote the revitalization of power supply regions, we award grants and subsidies to various projects and programs, including the upgrading and expansion of public facilities, the provision of public services that lead to revitalization of regional industry, programs to enhance regional attractiveness through the use of regional resources, and human resources development programs.

(Note) Power supply region refers to the city/town/village location of a power generation plant under preparation, under construction or in operation, and surrounding cities/towns/villages.

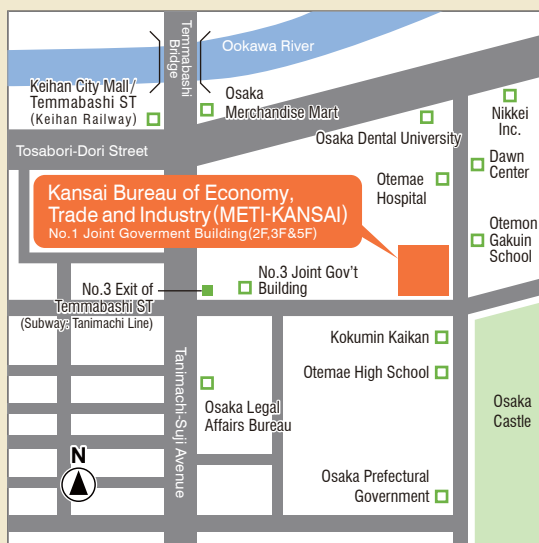

■Hidamari Salon Syaberoze (Gobo City, Wakayama Prefecture)
Hidamari Salon Syaberoze was established in 2002 in a vacant store on a shopping street in Gobo City, to promote the independence of the disabled by providing them with a place to work, and to serve as a place for local residents' recreation and relaxation. Experts on store operation and management offer guidance and advice with the support of the government. Syaberoze seeks to promote the independence of the disabled, to create social entrepreneurial ventures, and to revitalize the shopping street.

■Machi-no-Eki (roadside station) Plat-Home Takahama (Takahama Town, Fukui Prefecture)

In Takahama Town, Fukui Prefecture, the information and communication center Machi-no-Eki Plat-Home Takahama has been established on the premises of JR Wakasa-Takahama Station, with support from the government. There is a restaurant where any registered person can cook and serve food to guests, a multi-purpose room, an area for rental display boxes, and a market where fresh produce and other locally produced items are sold. This community facility, readily accessible by local residents, is expected to serve as a center for community development activities, with the active participation of local residents.
